Education as a component of democratization of higher education

Currently, when reformation of political, economic, public life in Ukraine is taking place, upbringing of the citizens, who are capable of building democratic society and working according to the principles of constitutional democracy and human rights, is of great importance.

The process of upbringing is always aimed at forming the elite of the society – the part that is capable of understanding the problems of the state system development and forming of civil society, explaining that to the society, undertaking responsibility and leading the society after them.

Civil responsibility and patriotism as a result of civil education belong to those human qualities that are impossible to form once for all by writing the program of actions of a respectable citizen. When taking this into account, it becomes clear that the measure of responsibility and difficulty of tasks, which depends upon teachers, who have to implement civil education and upbringing of responsible citizens.
