Moodle is free learning platform for online communication between teachers and students. It was developed in 2002 by Martin Dougiamas to help educators create online courses. As of June 2013 it had a user base of 83,008 registered and verified sites, serving 70,696,570 users in 7.5 million courses with 1.2 million teachers.

Designed to be responsive and accessible, the Moodle interface is easy to navigate on both desktop and mobile devices. Moodle allows to make learning process more convenient and comfortable for both students and teachers.
